NEED HOUSE NUMBERS

Over Half the Residences, Stores, Apartment Buildings and Other Structures in Chicago Are Without Them.

The casual observer cannot fail to notice that one of the crying needs of Chicago is street numbers on the buildings.

Since the passage of the new street car ordinance, which provides for the stopping of the cars at even numbered corners only, the absence of the numbers is painfully noticeable, and much annoyance is felt in consequence.

Letter carriers and others who have long suffered from this flagrant disregard of the law requiring numbers on every house, have grown tired of uttering complaints. No attention was paid to them.

Whole blocks all over Chicago are without numbers, and no one in authority appears to care about the fact.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

D'ANNUNZIO: "DICTATOR OF FIUME"

Gabriele d'Annunzio, "dictator of Fiume," surely has had a long pose under the limelight. He was popularly credited with a large share in pushing Italy into the war. He made a name for himself as an aviator. And when he took possession of Fiume all the world looked on in amazement.

The Fiume adventure of the fearless d'Annunzio has been dubbed "Garibaldian" and as such glorified. Judging by superficial appearances, in fact, it bears some resemblance to the famous expedition of 1860. But the likeness goes no further than mere appearances. If we compare d'Annunzio's expedition with Garibaldi's we soon discover a capital difference between them.

The one of 1860 was prepared and accomplished by a handful of private citizens free of military duty and "with the approval of the government." The Fiume expedition has been conceived and carried out by fragments of the regular army which refused obedience to the law and against the wish of the government.

SHAH OF PERSIA AND HIS JEWELS

Underwood & Underwood

Politics may make strange bedfellows, but world wars bring stranger visitors. Ahmed Mirza, the young shah of Persia, is reported to be planning a visit to the United States. If he comes and brings with him even a part of his $200,000,000 collection of jewels his visit will be strenuous.

The shah's crown is of solid gold thickly studded with gems. It is said to weigh more than ten pounds. It contains a ruby "as big as a hen's egg." This ruby is said to be 3,000 years old. According to tradition, it once adorned the turban of Saladin, the chivalrous foe of Richard Coeur de Lion during the wars of the crusades.

To replace his heavy, ponderous crown the shah has, for state occasions, an astrakhan hat adorned with an aigrette on which gleams, like a headlight, an immense diamond, known as the Taj-e-Mah, or "Sea of Light." This is the most valuable gem in the Persian collection. Its beauty was once as famous in India as that of the Koh-i-Nur, the "Mountain of Light," which is now in the crown of England.

"HOME" MEANS "LANDLORD AND RENT"

The United States has fought all her wars to "preserve the home," and yet probably 60 per cent of her people are tenants. This was the text selected the other day by United States Senator William M. Calder of New York in an address before the New York Real Estate association's convention urging the necessity of a national campaign for the creation of homes. He said:

"The object of each of our wars has been, in the last analysis, to preserve the home. Yet we find that to the majority of people in this country 'home' means little more than a dwelling for which they are paying rent. What is worse in the situation is that the percentage of these rent payers is growing.

"In 1890 we were advised that 52 per cent of the people in America lived under the rental system, in 1910 that the percentage had increased to 55, and probably the census of 1920 will show that fully 60 per cent of the people will be classed as tenants."

WOMEN AND AMERICAN STABILITY

George Horner & Co.

"America has been accused of carrying her individualism too far, but had it not been for her individualism America's democracy would have been shattered," says Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of St. Paul, prominent candidate for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. "Because of institutionalism, Germany became the most autocratic government on earth and America must exact eternal vigilance lest institutionalism seize our educational system and we suffer the same fate as Germany.

"The spotlight of war has defined our failures and recognized our virtues. America, to Europe, formerly meant the grasping of mean dollars, but throughout the world war Europe learned to define America in terms of generosity, for what nation has opened her purse strings to suffering humanity as America?

"Watch America; do not let her follow the footsteps of Babylon or Rome who, when they reached the pinnacle of civilization, fell into the pit of selfishness and cruelty which marked the beginning of their downfall.

"The General Federation has more than 2,000,000 members. How are women of America going to use their power? Women must be trained in organization, they must follow their altruistic tendencies and build a structure not of partisanship but of high purpose and fine ideals. Then America will not decay."

WINNER OF 5,402-MILE AIR RACE

This picture of Lieut. B. W. Maynard shows him to be a real man as well as aviator and theological student. Anyway, as an aviator he is a success, as he won the twice-around-the-continent airplane race of 5,402 miles from a field of 62 starters, finishing more than 600 miles ahead of his nearest rival.

The first words uttered by Lieutenant Maynard when he put his foot on mother earth again at Mincola, N. Y., were a generous tribute to Sergt. N. E. Klein, his companion on the flight. "Sergeant Klein deserves the greatest credit," said the lieutenant. "It is all up to the lieutenant," promptly retorted the sergeant. "He is the greatest pilot on earth."

Between Lieutenant Maynard and his wife, however, it was not a question of words. Mrs. Maynard was at the side of the airplane almost before it had come to rest, and her husband leaped from his seat and embraced her silently. His two little daughters, with a big red apple for their "daddy," were then lifted up one after the other to kiss their triumphant father. Hundreds cheered the scene.
